

Obchodná Street

Functionalism and Postmodernism

Urban Design Studio I | October 2016 | Katarina Smatanova | Camille Clap & Rafael Martins

Functionalism

Our functionalism proposal's main goal is to open streets and connecting its with the current local urban planning. This new space are organize with urban rules. This means that every streets are parallels and perpendiculars and every buildings have the same height. It's a homogeneous public space. Also, somes passages are on the ground floor between the street and public park (inside blocks) those spaces promote circulation. And we had choosen to keep in the ground floor the shops that way Obchodnà street are still a dynamic and trading street with the tram, bycicle and pedestrian path. The news perpendiculars streets haven't the same section and the same importance. In all streets space is shared, it's functionals spaces.

Tram street
Bicycle path
Pedestrian street
Greenery way

Postmodernism

Our Postmodern Proposal's main goal is to make the street more balanced and create other public spaces. This means that some buildings, that don't seem to be in accordance with the rest of the façades, are going to be removed so that there's room for other buildings that respect the street's architectural language. Also, room for new pedestrian streets in order to reveal more public spaces and corners for people to use, like the garden behind the Synagogue. This will also give the Synagogue another importance in the city. Overall, this simple proposal respects the postmodern aspect of the vernacular architecture of the site, creating a more homogenous place.

Post modernism

Post-Modern Approach:

- Tearing down odd buildings to the street making it look more balanced.
- Open more streets to create more open spaces and corners for the people to use.
- More points of interest.
- Green areas could be: Playgrounds; Exercise Areas; Trees and benches.

